[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Roanoke, Va., March 23.—Following the recent lay-off of 800 men in the Norfolk and Western shop and yard force, several leaders of organized labor are in the city, and have been holding a series of conferences during the past few days with reference to the lay-off. A number of wild rumors have been circulated in consequence of the presence of the labor representatives here, none of which have any foundation in fact.

President L. E. Johnson, and General Manager N. D. Maher, of the Norfolk and Western, are out of the city this week, but are expected to return to-morrow morning, and it is probable that a conference will be held during the day between the officials and the labor representatives. The general situation will be discussed, and something may be done to improve conditions prevailing, although this is not assured by any means.

result of a decision rendered As a result of a decision rendered this afternoon by Judge Mullen, of the Hustings Court, Carter R. Bishop, the former cashier, will not be called to trial to-morrow on indictment No. 9, charging him with making a false report of the financial condition of the Antomattey. Trust Company to Appomattox Trust Company, to the Corporation Commission.

Messrs, Willcox and Willcox, counsel for Mr. Bishop, moved the court to quash the indictment, on the ground that the statute providing for bank reports is unconstitutional, because, being criminal, it is incomplete in itself, in that it leaves some matters Corporation Commission. Counsel for Mr. Bishop also entered demurrers to the indictment on the grounds, first, that it does not state the character of the bank in question second, that no allegation is made that the corporation had promulgated the rule under which the bank statement was called for; third, failure of the inwas called for; third, failure of the indictment to set out the report in full; fourth, that it does not specify the particulars in which the items in the report were false.

All of these points were fully and ably argued affirmatively by counsel for Mr. Bishop, and in opposition by Commonwealth's Attorney R. H. Mann.

The argument was attentively heard by a large assemblage of members of the bar of the city, including the full array of counsel for Charles Hall

Judge Mullen overruled the motion to quash the indictment, and over-ruled also all the points of the demurrer, except the last which he sustained on the ground that it was not par-ticular enough in its statements of facts. The result of this decision is that Mr. Bishop will not be brought to trial to-morrow, as had been arranged, and that the entire bank affairs will probably be brought before another grand jury for action and for new indictments. Meanwhile all the present indictments will be held until new ones are found. At least such is the report to-day. Another grand jury investigation of the Appomattox Trust Company's affairs would probably cause considerable delay, and, it is predicted, may result in the indictment of other parties than Mr. Bishop and Mr. Davis. The grand jury meets to-morrow. Mr. Davis's case is set for trial on April 10.
